Business Overview

Bambino's Childrens Wear has been established in Brixton since 1984 and moved to their current premises in 1989.

The business has expanded over the years and specialises in school uniforms 3 to 18 years, baptism, christening, holy communion attire and dresses, shoes and boys suits that are for all occasions including weddings and funerals up to the age of 16.

There is an e-commerce website keeping customers up to date with all the latest stock.

The business has an excellent reputation within the local area and has exclusive uniform supply agreements for a number of local schools.

There is huge potential to increase the turnover with additional marketing and advertising and the business would be an ideal "bolt on" acquisition for a company looking to expand its portfolio.

Location

Located in Brixton, South West London, the business occupies a prominent trading location on Brixton Station Road surrounded by complimentary business and benefits from high levels of passing trade.

Brixton is mainly a residential district of south London, within the London Borough of Lambeth. The area is identified in the London Plan as one of 35 major centres in Greater London.
